IS IT POSSIBLE to see the future? It's a power many of us would like to have. Certain people have made reputations for themselves with their abilities to prognosticate what's going to happen with an uncanny success rate. Following are predictions for the year 2014 in a wide range of topics -- from politics to weather and environment to celebrities - - from some of the top psychics and forecasters.

LaMont Hamilton

LaMont "Monte" Hamilton is an ordained minister, Reiki Master healing practitioner, registered hypnotherapist, and holds multiple degrees in business, psychology, and education, and has worked in the paranormal field full time for over 25 years. Here's what he sees for 2014:

- An electrical fire is seen in the new NSA (National Security Agency) collection center in Utah that will be linked to sabotage.

- We will lose one of our past Presidents or First Lady this year after a prolonged illness.
- 2014 will be a very interesting political year since we'll have the Fall elections coming, and I predict we'll have at least 2-3 congressmen resigning their offices before that time. I see a few more veteran lawmaker's losing their seats after the elections are over.
- Due to an increase in sexual assaults in the military this year, men and women will eventually be segregated once again.
- The Atlantic ocean along the central east coast [of the U.S.] will be contaminated due to radiation or pollution that kills aquatic life.
- Russia, China, and U.S. will collaborate on an asteroid shield/tracking program

Sidney
Friedman.

Sidney Friedman

Sidney "SidneySeer" Friedman claims a documented predictions accuracy of 71%, and a near 100% success rate with his Oscar predictions, missing only twice. His predictions have been covered by all the major television networks as well as hundreds of radio programs.

Edward Snowden will return to the United States and will not face trial.

Pope Francis announces plans for a visit to North America. Chicago will be one of the destinations. (And although it's been revealed the Pope will visit the Middle East for two days, the trip actually will extend to four days.)

A fusion of resources, a major collaboration between China and the United States is announced. It most likely will regard energy and assistance for developing countries.

A major pipeline, not for oil, but for water is announced.

The feel-good network will feel even "gooder." Following several ratings-challenged years, Oprah Winfrey's OWN network will see its ratings and revenues soar this year.

Unlike most celebs, who keep their weddings closed and private, Kanye and Kim's wedding will be televised live. Some of the revenue will go to charity.

Garlic is in the news.

Strange, eerie, rumbling sounds are heard in the Midwest of the United States.

Chivalry returns.

Most improbably, the 2014 elections see Texas turning blue.

Snow falls in southern Florida.

A major delay occurs in the Oscar telecast.

Regarding Academy Awards predictions, once again, I do not see the films. I do not go to the movie theater nor do I rent them or read the reviews. If I were to see them, my own biases could come into play. So these predictions every year are entirely intuitive even though I have no clue who many of these people are. Also, I pick not only some of the major categories but also some of the odd ones. Here we go:

Lupita Nyong'o (12 Years a Slave) for Best Supporting Actress.

Bruce Dern (Nebraska) for Best Actor.

Steve McQueen (12 Years a Slave) for Best Director.

Frozen for Best Animated Feature. "Let It Go" (Frozen) for Best Original Song.

Gravity for Best Cinematography.

12 Years a Slave for Best Adapted Screenplay.

Jared Leto (Dallas Buyers Club) for Best Actor.

A shock wave, perhaps literally or perhaps figuratively, is felt in Russia.

Pippa Middleton announces she is getting engaged.

Will and Kate announce they are expecting another baby. And you can expect a girl.

If anyone cares (but apparently many do), Khloe Kardashian slims up with a remarkable weight loss.

The United States economy sees the unemployment rate drop to 6.6%, maybe even 6.4%. Contrary to most current punditry, the DOW sees a significant drop in late winter or early spring (after beginning robustly bullish). It rebounds by November and likely finishes the year higher than where it began, perhaps 5 to 6 percent higher. The economy overall continues to grow. Corporate investment finally surges. Keep in mind, back in December 2008, post-crash, I predicted a 7 to 9 year recovery and also predicted immediate gains in the stock market in 2009 in spite of most analyst's forecasts of continued gloom. So far, I have been right on target. As always though, consult your own investment advisor, do your research, combine your knowledge with a bit of intuition, and remember, it is NOT a stock market. It's a market of stocks.

With sincere hopes the following does not occur, I sense two natural disasters striking nearly simultaneously in the United States.

Remarkably, for the first time, a poll finally finds one person who actually approves of Congress.
